COLLEGE FURNISHES HITTING PRACTICE

Colts Get Rare Opportunity for Splendid Workout. Score Eighteen Runs to Three for Spiders. Bussey and Burleson Divide

Pitching Honors.

Richmond College furnished mighty excellent batting practice and splendid base running opportunity for the Colts in the game yesterday, but aside from that the conflict between the Virginia Leaguers and the Spiders could hardly be called interesting. The final count was 18 to 3.

For the two opening frames both teams were retired in good order without much damage being done. Geosie Hulcher was pitching for the college, while Harvey Bussey was doing the same kind of work for the Colts. The difference between Bussey and Hulcher was that the professional kept jogging steadily on, while the collegian lost his compass and his bearing in the fourth stanza, and with these very exsentials gone went the ball game. In that third session the Colts batted at the way around, and Mace and Bussey each had two tries. Eight tallies were chalked up, and all interest evaporated right then and there.

Naturally, the Colts slowed up some, and, with very great respect for them as a team, some individuals leafed not inexcusable. As a result of these tacties the collegians were able to showed two of the score; in their counts of the confict surface and splendid the counts of the collegian post of the college club took several flights which assisted in the counts against them materially. In all, the coltex of these counters in their share of the sixth and a like number in the seventh, while the eighth was less productive, but the gent the score some score counting. Duval finishing the eighth was less productive, sixth and a like number in the seventh, while the eighth was less productive, such as seventh, while the eighth was less productive, such as the collegian both the collegian both the collegian both the collegian seventh the collegians bether the collegians were every evident carclesses in the defensive work of the Griffites.

Everybody was taking a healthy whack at the leather, and everybody landed with more or less force, excepting John Mace. Eberts led with three safe swats, and everybody else got one ench. # PHILLIES LOSE

Washington, March 28.—The Philadelphia National League Club lost its first big game of the year here to-day, Clark Griffith's American League team won the game by 6 to 2. Griffith sent in two of his young pitchers, Engle and Galila, while Dooin used three of his veteran twirlers. Chalmers, Brennan and Seaton. Harring McGee, who cracked out three singles, none of the Quakers could do anything with the twirling of the home players. Chalmers, who started to pitch for the National Leaguers, did not arrive here from Southern Pines until two hours before play started. The cold weather did him no good, and he was touched up for seven hits and four runs in five innings, which practically decided the issue.

Doolan played short for the Phillies, and his fielding was a decided feature of the game. The same teams will play here to-morrow.

Renedictine easily outplayed the opponents both in hitting and fielding. The pitching of Currie and the catching of Liesfield, both deserve special mention. Both are new men.

Eland, for Massey's, pitched well considering his poor support. Parsons, Polard, Hoen and Liesfield did the hitting for Benedictine; Miller, Worgeman, Pullen, Bland, for Massey's. The score:

like we want a man at that place to act. Doc Newton has shown his clever-ness while Charles, is doing fair work at second. But at that place Grif will be found regularly after the try-out period is over. As for John Raley, he is better than he was last season, and he was the heat fortscale.

The outfield looks pretty good now, but will look even better once Burke gets into the game. Doyle, another outfielder, should be here to-morrow. He has been expected all week, but wires that he has been delayed through death in his family. He leaves to-day for the front.
